

GRIDIRON BUILDING

OVERVIEW

Gridiron Building is an instantly recognisable David Chipperfield landmark – a modern example of structural design.

With floor to ceiling windows and uninterrupted views across Pancras Square, these offices are awash with natural light.

The sustainability standards are second to none, with the Gridiron Building achieving an 'outstanding' BREAAM certification.

The offices in the building are available on flexible terms and which allow you to expand during your tenancy.

One of London's, most architecturally interesting areas, King's Cross is home to Thomas Heatherwick's Coal Drops Yard and David Adjaye's Lost House. Kings Cross station is under a minutes walk from the Gridiron Building and is one of the best connected stations in London. Northern, Victoria, Piccadilly, Circle, Metropolitan and Hammersmith and City lines all serve King Cross St Pancras as well as Eurostar, City Thameslink and National Rail.
