OVERVIEW

The characterful design and prime location of United House results in a work space that reflects its cultural Notting Hill surroundings.

This light-filled building has everything from a communal lounge to a peaceful recharge room, a relaxing space with quiet, subdued lighting.

There are open plan, communal spaces to help you collaborate with others - including the bright, quirky lounge as well as more private focus booths for solo work.

Sustainability is at the forefront of this building's design - solar panels and a green roof have been installed to help offset emissions.
